

My Summers Experience

I interned with Citigroup Global Markets, the Investment Banking division at Mumbai and it was an extremely fulfilling experience.

The internship was well organized. Right from Day 1, I was assigned a mentor who familiarized me with the work environment at Citi and eased me into my role.

The internship was well organized and my role was that of an entry level analyst. This was great learning in terms of what is expected of an analyst as well as a peep into how an investment bank works.

The work culture was informal yet highly professional. I got a lot of support from my team mates and that allowed me to learn quickly.

On a typical day, I would be involved in a live deal when one was in progress. Data collection, analysis, and drawing inferences were also part of my role as an analyst. Comparative analyses, preparation of presentations for pitches and creating/updating valuation models made up the remaining bits of my work.

To sum up, I got an opportunity to put to use Finance related learning from my first year course, as well as learnt about the practicalities of an investment bank. It was a very enriching experience, one that I thoroughly enjoyed.
