

My Summers Experience

Citibank was my first corporate experience and in every respect it was the best learning ground I could have received. I was given a live project, to introduce a new credit card feature, and had complete charge of planning the execution of the same. Right from the first to the last day, I was exposed to several domains of credit cards division. My Project Guide was always there to guide and advise me throughout the internship period. Members of the different teams from cards portfolio to marketing, from operations to service handling, helped me in understanding the concepts of credit cards in order to lay the foundation on which I could build up my project.

I am happy to be associated with the Citi brand and would love to contribute to it even in my future endeavors in every way possible.
